Preparation

Safety Plan Checklist

- Open a checking/savings account in your name.
- Leave an extra set of keys, money, copies of important documents, clothes and medications out of the home with someone you can trust.
- Get your own PO Box address.
- Identify a safe place where you can go and borrow money or other essentials if needed.
- Get your own cell phone with private number as well as a phone card for emergency calls.
- Make arrangements to board your pets.

Computer Safety Checklist

- Change your PIN numbers and user ids on email accounts and other electronic accounts.
- Create a new email account.
- Remove yourself from Facebook and other social media sites.

Awareness

- Assess your partner's level of anger, alcohol or drug usage prior to an emotional/violent event.
- If you are in the same room with an angry partner, move yourself near doors for fast exit.
- Remove yourself from the kitchen and any room with knives, guns or anything that can be used as a weapon against you.
- Know where your keys and safety kit are.
- Keep car backed in driveway & fueled for quick exit.
- In the event of abuser's verbal anger or assaults, say nothing, stay calm and leave the home.
- Plan an escape route with your children. In the event of violence, children should not intervene, but be given a code word to signal that they should leave the home.
- Learn simple, effective self defense tactics if absolutely needed.

Action

- If you are planning to leave the home, leave when least expected and when things are calm.
- Call police, domestic shelter, trusted family and friends.
- Carry your cell phone with you at all times, pre-program 911 in it.
- Keep copy of Restraining Order, Order of Protection or No Contact Order with you at all times.
- Give copies of restraining orders to employers, neighbors, friends and family.
- Have your escape plan and safety kit ready.
- Inform your children's schools about the abuse. Consider if it's possible to change schools.
- Change up your daily routine as much as possible, which includes traveling different routes. Change your route to work and school.
